

An Old Settler Called To His Last Home.

Lied on Sunday last at his home in Lake Belt township, Lysander Kateley, at the age of eighty-three year.

Mr. Kateley had been a resident of the county for forty two years.

He took a claim in the township where he died. He was an upright, honorable man, who at all time had in considiration the welfare of his family, friends and neighbors.

He lived a consistent, practical, upright Christian life. At various times he held a number of official positions in his township, which he filled with ability and satisfaction to all. The old settlers and all who knew him regret his departure from this earth, and will bear witness to his noble, upright life. We believe he has justly earned the reward which the good book tells of those who have fought a good fight and won.

The deceased leaves surviving an aged wife, a daughter Mrs. Risen, and sons, Oscar, William, Lyman and Frank.—Independent.
